

MASTER PIECES

Autumn marks the arrival of three world-class art fairs in London. From 14–19 September, LAPADA (lapada.org) showcases the best of Britain's art and antiques trade, with more than 110 LAPADA members displaying fine art, furniture, jewellery and antiques. Next is PAD London (pad-fairs.com/london), from 1–7 October, staging the works of 68 galleries across art, design, antiques and jewellery. Frieze Art Fair (frieze.com/fairs/frieze-london) returns from 5–7 October. The new section Social Work will celebrate artists who challenged the male-dominated art world of the 1980s.

↓ WHEN IN FRANCE

Oenophiles in search of a serene autumn break will be pleased to hear that the restored 12th-century Cistercian Abbey, Abbaye de la Bussière in Burgundy's wine region, has just launched its own wine cellar. As well as sampling the best of local wines at the chateau's Michelin-starred restaurant, The 1131 (alongside food from chef Guillaume Royer), guests will be able to buy a bottle for themselves. Set in 17 acres of landscaped gardens and parkland next to the Burgundy canal, the luxury 20-room hotel is just a short drive from the Cote d'Or vineyards. From €225 (£200) per room, per night; abbayedelabussiere.fr/en
